CORPORATE PLANNING WITH BDG

The demands placed on energy supply companies are high: regulatory requirements, price fluctuations on the energy market, changing consumer behaviour, plus the challenge of enormous amounts of data from billing systems - many factors make corporate planning for energy supply companies complex.

This makes a customised business intelligence solution all the more important: to enable the entire company to react to changes and survive in a competitive market. This naturally affects financial controlling in the first place, but also sales controlling or the human resources department.

bdg has supported numerous energy supply companies on their way to integrated corporate planning. We are true specialists for energy industry planning: In all our projects we combine in-depth specialist knowledge with technological expertise - for the success of our of our customers.

We have summarised our many years of expertise in modular solutions that enable integrated corporate planning across all relevant departments.
